

Smuggled In Potato Sacks: Fifty Stories of the Hidden Children of the Kaunas Ghetto

By -

Vallentine Mitchell Co Ltd, United Kingdom, 2011. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 147 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. This is a unique and valuable book, a powerful account of fifty Jewish children hidden in the Kovno Ghetto during the Second World War. Each story has its own character and its own resonance, which will bring this harsh period into stark relief. There is much in these pages of suffering, but also of courage, endurance and nobility of spirit. To those in these pages who saved the lives of Jewish children, a great debt of gratitude is due, and admiration at the grave risks they took to show that even in the midst of evil, there are human faces and humane individuals.---Sir Martin Gilbert, Author of The Holocaust: The Jewish Tragedy About 5,000 children were imprisoned in the Kaunas Ghetto in 1941-44, of which some 250-300 were smuggled out of the ghetto, hidden by gentiles and survived. This book is a collective memory of events that happened to Kaunas Jewry during the Nazi occupation of Lithuania in 1941-44. It contains fifty stories of persons who experienced the Holocaust in their earlier childhood in Kaunas. Most participants are writing about their...
