Chapter Xxiii. In Which We Still Hoter About The Elysian Fields. HE describor and biographer of my friend Mr. Philip Firmin has tried to extenuate nothing; and, I hope, has set down naught in malice. If Philips boots had holes in them, I have written that he had holes in his boots. If he had a red beard, there it is red in this story. I might have oiled it with a tinge of brown, and painted it a rich auburn. To-wards modest people he was very gentle and tender; but I must own that in general society he was not always an agreeable companion. He was often haughty Vol. iv. --No. 23. 25. and arrogant: he was impatient of old stories: he was intolerant of commonplaces. Mrs. Baynes anecdotes of her garrison experiences in India and Europe got a very impatient hearing from Mr. Philip; and though little Charlotte gently remonstrated with him, saying, Do, do let mamma tell her story out; and dont turn away and talk about something else in the midst of it; and dont tell her you have heard the story before, you rude man! If she is not pleased with you, she is angry with me, and I have to suffer when you are gone away, --Miss Charlotte did not say how much she had to suffer when Philip was absent; how constantly her mother found fault with him; what a sad life, in...
